Career Highlights:

I have been blessed with a career path filled with professional opportunities and growth. Trained broadly as a sociologist with health interests, I later earned my MBA, expanding my administrative skills. While working in a university research center, I was asked to direct the Idaho Center for Disabilities Evaluation and so acquired direct experience in health care management. Concurrently, as a faculty member teaching health care management, I rose from an assistant professor to department chair at Idaho State University before moving to East Carolina University where I served again as a program director in Health Services Management and was subsequently promoted to full professor. I currently serve as professor and associate dean for academic affairs (ADAA). I am grateful for having received recognition by peers and the university system and especially students. These include the Gary L. Filerman Prize for Educational Leadership, Association of University Programs in Health Administration (AUPHA), 2024; ECU Women and Gender Office, Outstanding Mentor, 2019; and the North Carolina Board of Governors Distinguished Professor for Teaching Award, 2015.

In addition to publishing three textbooks, two in second edition (Ethics and Professionalism for Healthcare Managers, Essentials of Healthcare Management: Cases, Concepts, and Skills, and Healthcare Marketing: A Case Study Approach), I have published over 45 book chapters and peer reviewed articles. My professional activities include years of service on the AUPHA Board (Past Chair) and editorship for the Journal of Case Studies. I believe in the importance of faculty governance (having served as chair of the ECU College of Allied Health Sciences Faculty Council) and in providing leadership and development opportunities for faculty.

As Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (ADAA), I am very proud of the efforts we are making in interprofessional education and collaboration, continuing successful accreditation of programs, and the ongoing support for faculty, staff, and students.

Current Academic Position:

Professor and Associate Dean for Academic Affairs (ADAA) (Spring 2018 – present)
College of Allied Health Sciences (CAHS)
East Carolina University

I provide administrative leadership, oversight, planning, development, implementation, evaluation, and assisting with accreditation efforts of academic programs in health sciences. I have participated in developing the CAHS strategic plan and serve to direct and assess implementation of initiatives. As Associate Dean for Academic Affairs my responsibilities have involved participating in meetings and initiatives that improve the academic experience, such as the Association of Schools Advancing Health Professions (ASAHP), Interprofessional Education Collaborative (IPEC), Social Mission Organization, and Erasmus+ (Bulgaria)] and working on numerous university committees to connect CAHS to the broader university. In this work, I primarily focus on Academic Excellence, Interprofessional Education and Collaboration, and Faculty, Staff, and Student Success.
